NOTES ON DD/S&T RESOURCE PRESENTATIONS

Questions raised with which Steininger did not overtly disagree, about the eight slots in the NRO staff. Don mentioned they might settle for only keeping the Deputy slot.

Don S. also responded to questions about 111 slots for [] outfit. This is a complete total. Don mused whether this was necessary or whether another Agency should furnish the slots. While I do not like to question his sincerity, I give little credence to the issue when I look at the complex undertaking, the nearness of an operational posture, and the rotten relationships that already exist between Agencies on this matter.

Don S. believes that OTS should be the last unit in DD/S&T to be cut. I raised the issue that [] DDO could not take over the "special [] of OTS. The issue of [] came up. I have heard some stories on this in other forms. I get the impression that DDO may have some dissatisfaction with the OC project of this program and may like to have it transferred to OTS. Don S. mentioned forthcoming later OTS/[] involvement. I think we should pursue this issue.

There was some discussion as to whether or not OTS could take a small reduction in its Far East Stations, such as one at [] one each authentication type and generalist type at Saigon.

There was discussion of the possibility of DD/I taking over the NPIC Map Library responsibilities and maybe establishing a Map Library unit in the Geodetics Survey space NPIC is to acquire.

The OSA issue is still a little bit unclear time-wise. There also will have to be an identification of some of the OSA support slots which, in fact, render support to OD&E in [] outfit. I will endeavor to get this worked out with Wendell Bevan.

The defense of ORD came out only in a general and not a very specific sense. Everybody seems to agree that some degree of relevant research should be continued. I am getting a reading from OS as to their reaction to the value of ORD undertakings being done on their behalf.

There is attached a revised proposed DD/S&T staffing plan with add-ons for '75 submitted by Don S.
